BUT it was taking too much time and by the time dynamics came along I needed Chegg (partly because the teacher wasn't as good and didn't give us graded homework and solutions). In that class it probably made the difference between a B (or C) and an A. Like everyone else says, it's a great tool if you use it wisely.

I didn't get a Chegg account until my last year of school, and kind of regret it. The thing I like is that it provides step by step solutions to problems and explains why they're doing it, which you don't usually get with a regular solutions manual. For the amount of time and frustration it saves, I thought $20 was a fair price.
